Traditional data regarding the ancestry of Watson Kirkconnell through his mother's mother, Margaret Elma Green (1830-1904)

1784-86 The coming to the Niagara Peninsula of a Palatine German U.E. ancestor, Mueller or Miller by name. His descendants would seem to have intermarried later with the Greens (also W.E.)

1808-14 AN ancestor (Welsh?) takes part in the Peninsular War as an officer in Wellington's army. While in Spain, he married a young lady in a Spanish convent school, and ultimately brought her to Upper Canada. My grandmother (~~her~~ granddaughter) remembered her as a venerable old lady who loved to sit, wearing a lace mantilla. (The above officer need not have a Miller or a Green, but in any case must have joined the genealogical parade through his daughter marrying a Green.)

1813 FAMILY records destroyed in the burning of Newark by McClure.

1830 Margaret Elma Green (my mother's mother) born at Lundy's Lane.

1851 Margaret Elma Green, of Lundy's Lane, marries Thomas Watson (my mother's father) of Toronto.

NOTE: I can trace my father's family back 23 generations to the estate of Kirkconnell, near New Abbey, Kirkcudbrightshire, Scotland, and my mother's father's family back to the 18th century to ALSTON, in Cumberland, England. Both of these families came to Upper Canada in 1819.

Land Speculation in the Mohawk Country
by

Edith M. Fox

Cornell University Press, 1949.

P. 11

During the following years, Clarke and other speculators remained sensitive to the movements of the Palatines, who multiplied through birth and immigration and spread along the Mohawk and Schoharie. Referring in 1736 to the Susquehanna region, where shortly he would have shares of the Cherry Valley, Linderay, Long and Bradt patents, Clarke remarked, "If the Germans or others take a run there they will make it worth our while to secure a part for ourselves."¹⁰ Philip Livingston had as his emissary among the Palatines at Burnettsfield, the settlement near the head of the Mohawk and eighty miles from Albany, one Timothy Magin, his former indentured servant, who had married a Palatine girl and for whom Livingston helped to obtain a farm, expecting in return favors in the acquisition of land."

10. Clark to Colden, Dec. 24, 1736, Colden Papers, II, p. 167.

11. Philip Livingston to Colden, Jan. 8, 1737/8, ibid II p. 188.

P. 36

But Livingston had his revenge, whether intentionally or not. The Quiskamy patent never had been partitioned, and until a division between the partners was made no man would make a settlement upon land which might fall to another. No partition act could be requested of the assembly until the Oneida Indians were satisfied in the purchase — perhaps the land never had been purchased, or perhaps a few young men had been seduced by rum to acknowledge a deed!

Philip Livingston, one of the Oustkany partners, undertook to satisfy the Indians through an agent who had been his indentured servant. On January 3, 1738, Livingston wrote to Colden asking as a favor that this agent, Timothy Magin, be granted a patent of 360 acres of land at Burnettsfield, the furthestmost settlement of Germans. "I think he may be of Service to make some of the purchases of land I have in view." Livingston added that the lieutenant-governor approved of this plan.⁴⁴

Some two weeks later Livingston informed Clarke that the Oneidas had promised a deed only to the land around the Carrying Place, and that Magin "should have for his trouble in the affair the Land at the Carrying place for three years at £20- per annum. He means to have the Sole management and employing people to Ride there and gett some young married people who have no Land to Settle there" Thus Livingston declared his intentions of monopolizing through his agent both the portage and neighboring settlement. He added the vague assurance that Magin might be able to acquire the remainder of the lands from the Indians before spring, and that once the Indians had been satisfied by a reservation of land for planting purposes there would "be no difficulty in dividing & settling the whole tract that is fitt for improving."⁴⁵ The above information had also been given to another partner, Chief Justice De Larue.

The Oneidas did not release their claims to Oustkany until 1768 and 1769

page 138. The Humble Petition of Sarah McGinn sheweth

That your petitioner, Widow of Captain McGinn who was killed last War; under the command of the late Sir William Johnson Bart, near Lake George, and who had a Son/being her only Son now living/Lieutenant in the Six Nation Departmt, that was wounded in the Knee in this unnatural Rebellion, and his having a helpless Family renders him unable to give her any assistance she is aged and very infirm and The Rebels have destroyed, plunder'd and taken almost all her property; because they alledged/and not without reason/that she was tampering with the Indians in favour of Government.

That she was confin'd at Fort Eaton and at different times brought before their Committies strictly examined about Indian Matters and as often got clear/but with difficulty/of the Committies resentment.

That when our Forces were before Fort Stanwix, your petitioner made her escape to it, with her family, except a Son, who she was obliged to leave to their mercy; who was out of his Sences, and bound in Chains/as he had been for several years/and sometime afterwards was burned alive in said situation.

That if your petitioner had not got away, the Rebels would certainly have obliged her to act for them with the Indians-the Rebels by way of inducement to come over to their side offered her Twelve Shillings York Currency per day and a Guard of Thirty men to protect her against any harm from the Kings Troops, which offer she refused with contempt.

That after our Forces returned from Fort Stanwix to Oswego, Your petitioner was sent with her Son Mr. Geo. McGinn mentioned before, to Quayouga Castle to be of every service in her power to Government among the Indians during her Stay there- It happened that an Indian was going with a belt of Wampam to the different Indians, from General Schyler acquainting the Six Nations, that all the Kings Troops had been defeated and taken Prisoners at Saratoga by the American Army and if the Six Nations would not come immediately and make Peace with the Congress, they would find means to compell them: which Belt your petitioner stoped and prevailed upon the Indian to carry an account of a different nature, favourable to Government and encouraged the Six Nations, who soon after went to War against the Rebels on their Frontier.

Your petitioner now resides at Carleton Island and has nothing to support her but her Rations alone.

Dear Sir or Madam.

I received your letter a couple of days ago and I am just getting around to answer.

I can't add to much to what Mr Patrick gave you only that John Magee or Marginus was an Ensign in the Revolution War and his brother Jacob was a 2nd Lt in the same war.

I have a copy of John George Kast will, Sarah's father that I will send you.

I was trying to get enough information about the first Kast families and there descendants and so on down the line for a book but gave up because it is so expensive, they scattered all over the U.S. and Canada.

My own direct line always stayed in Herkimer so they were easy to trace. I joined the D. A. R. under Frederick Kast. His father was a brother to Sarah.

I sent your letter on to my sister, Mildred Conrad she has a lot more on some families than I do. Hope she can help more than I have.

In the years of peace following 1748, several more patents were issued for lands in the northern section to certain investors. Near Stone Arabia, Dow and Jellis Fonda, well-known merchants, obtained twenty thousand acres in 1752. This grant is usually indicated on the land patent maps as the Kingsborough patent. George Klock and fourteen others succeeded in procuring a patent for sixteen thousand acres between Garoga and East Canada Creeks. Because of the fraud connected with the grant, the Indians were much aroused and excited, and it later required Johnson's most earnest exertions to satisfy them. In 1755, James Stewart and twelve others obtained twenty-four thousand acres in the present Johnstown. Sarah Magin and others were granted a patent for twenty-six thousand acres, north of the Klock patent, and Abraham Lott, Isaac Low, and their eighteen associates received a patent for twenty thousand acres north of the Magin grant (Patent Books, XIII, 428; Land Papers, XVI, 68; Cal. of Land Papers, 306; Council Minutes, XXIII, 370, 373; Cal. of Council Minutes, 405).

Magin Patent--Patent Books, XIII, 306; Land Papers, IV, 49, 175; Cal. of Land Papers, 274, 292; Council Minutes, XXIII, 308, 314; Cal. of Council Minutes, 401, 402.

Taking advantage of the terms offered by Governor Burnet (to settle the disagreements with the Palatine Germans) with reference to the twenty-four mile tract above the falls (Little Falls), the heirs of Johan Jurgh Kast, a Palatine, obtained in June, 1724, a patent for eleven hundred acres. The patentees were the wife of the deceased Kast, together with their seven children, the wife of John Kast, Jr., and their two children. The patent included the usual reservations, and called for twenty-seven shillings sixpence annual rent. One of the Kasts was included in the nearby Burnetsfield patent, granted a year later, and possibly the first generation of Kasts made their home with their former neighbors. Some time previous to the Revolution, a family of Kasts located in Schuyler, the town where the patent is located (Patent Books, IX, 108, 109; Land Papers, IX, 75, 76; Cal. of Land Papers, 171).

Another group of Palatines settled west of the same falls, or "first carrying place," on the Burnetsfield patent. Apparently it was the same tract mentioned in Burnet's offer, and in Kast's patent, but different portions of the tract were granted in the two patents. This land was purchased from the Indians by John Conrad Weiser and other Palatines, July 9, 1722 (N.Y. Col. Doc., V, 634; Patent Books, IX, 109; Land Papers, VIII, 168; Cal. of Land Papers, 161).

The Burnetsfield patent, issued April 13, 1725, assigned one-hundred-acre lots to some ninety persons. Some received their acreage all in one place, while others received thirty acres in the desirable river bottoms in the angle formed by the Mohawk and West Canada Creek, and the other seventy acres in woodland back from the river. As in the case of the Stone Arabia brethren, the Palatines were required to pay the customary quit-rent for the grant, in spite of their expected service as frontier defenders (Patent Books, IX, 139, 165; Land Papers, 166, 169, 181, 182; Council Minutes XIV, 83; Cal. of Council Minutes, 289. Benton, Nathaniel S., History of Herkimer County, 684, conjectures that the license or deed may have been an authorization for them to remove to the Mohawk even before the patent was issued, but this was not the customary procedure, and there apparently was no reason why the patent should not have been granted earlier if necessary. Vide Hardin, George A., History of Herkimer County for diagram of the lots).

The meadow lands south of the river were later known as the German Flats while the village opposite was named Herkimer in honor of the German General who won fame in the Revolution. At last the Palatines had an opportunity to build their habitations in a permanent abiding place on land of which they had undisputed possession. The Burnetsfield community thrived and prospered until it was ravaged and partly destroyed in the French and Indian war. After the close of the war, the Germans re-established their homes, and flourished until the devastating raids in the Revolution. As Burnet had anticipated, the Germans indeed served as a barrier against the enemy. The activity of the German frontiersmen in the Revolution is a well-known story.

Mr. Gus Richards,
Stella, Ont.

Dear Gus:

Many thanks for your reply to my letter. However, there were two or three questions which I wanted to ask to clear up some uncertainty. Here they are:

1. Your grandfather, William McGinnis. Was he a brother of John Howard McGinnis, the father of 'Little' Bill McGinnis?

Yes.

2. According to information, your mother was Adeline Jane McGinnis, a first cousin of 'Little' Bill McGinnis. Is this true?

Yes

3. If I am right, your grandmother McGinnis, wife of William McGinnis, was named Elizabeth. What was her last name?

The Elizabeth you have reference to was Wm McGinnis' sister who raised my mother as my mother's mother died when my mother was born

4. Who was Timothy McGinnis who married Elizabeth Hartman? Did they have any children?

I never heard of those people

5. Who was James McGinnis whose wife was Mary Ann, and whose daughter was Margaret E. McGinnis. What happened to this family?

James McGinnis was a brother of Wm & John Howard McGinnis. James was drowned & the wife's daughter went to Watertown

6. There was a George McGinnis living 100 years ago with John McGinnis and his wife Caroline Howard. Who was he?

George McGinnis was James & Mary Ann Baker's son, who went to the States too, I just remember seeing him once

Do not be angry with me for asking questions. If you do not ask you will never know anything.

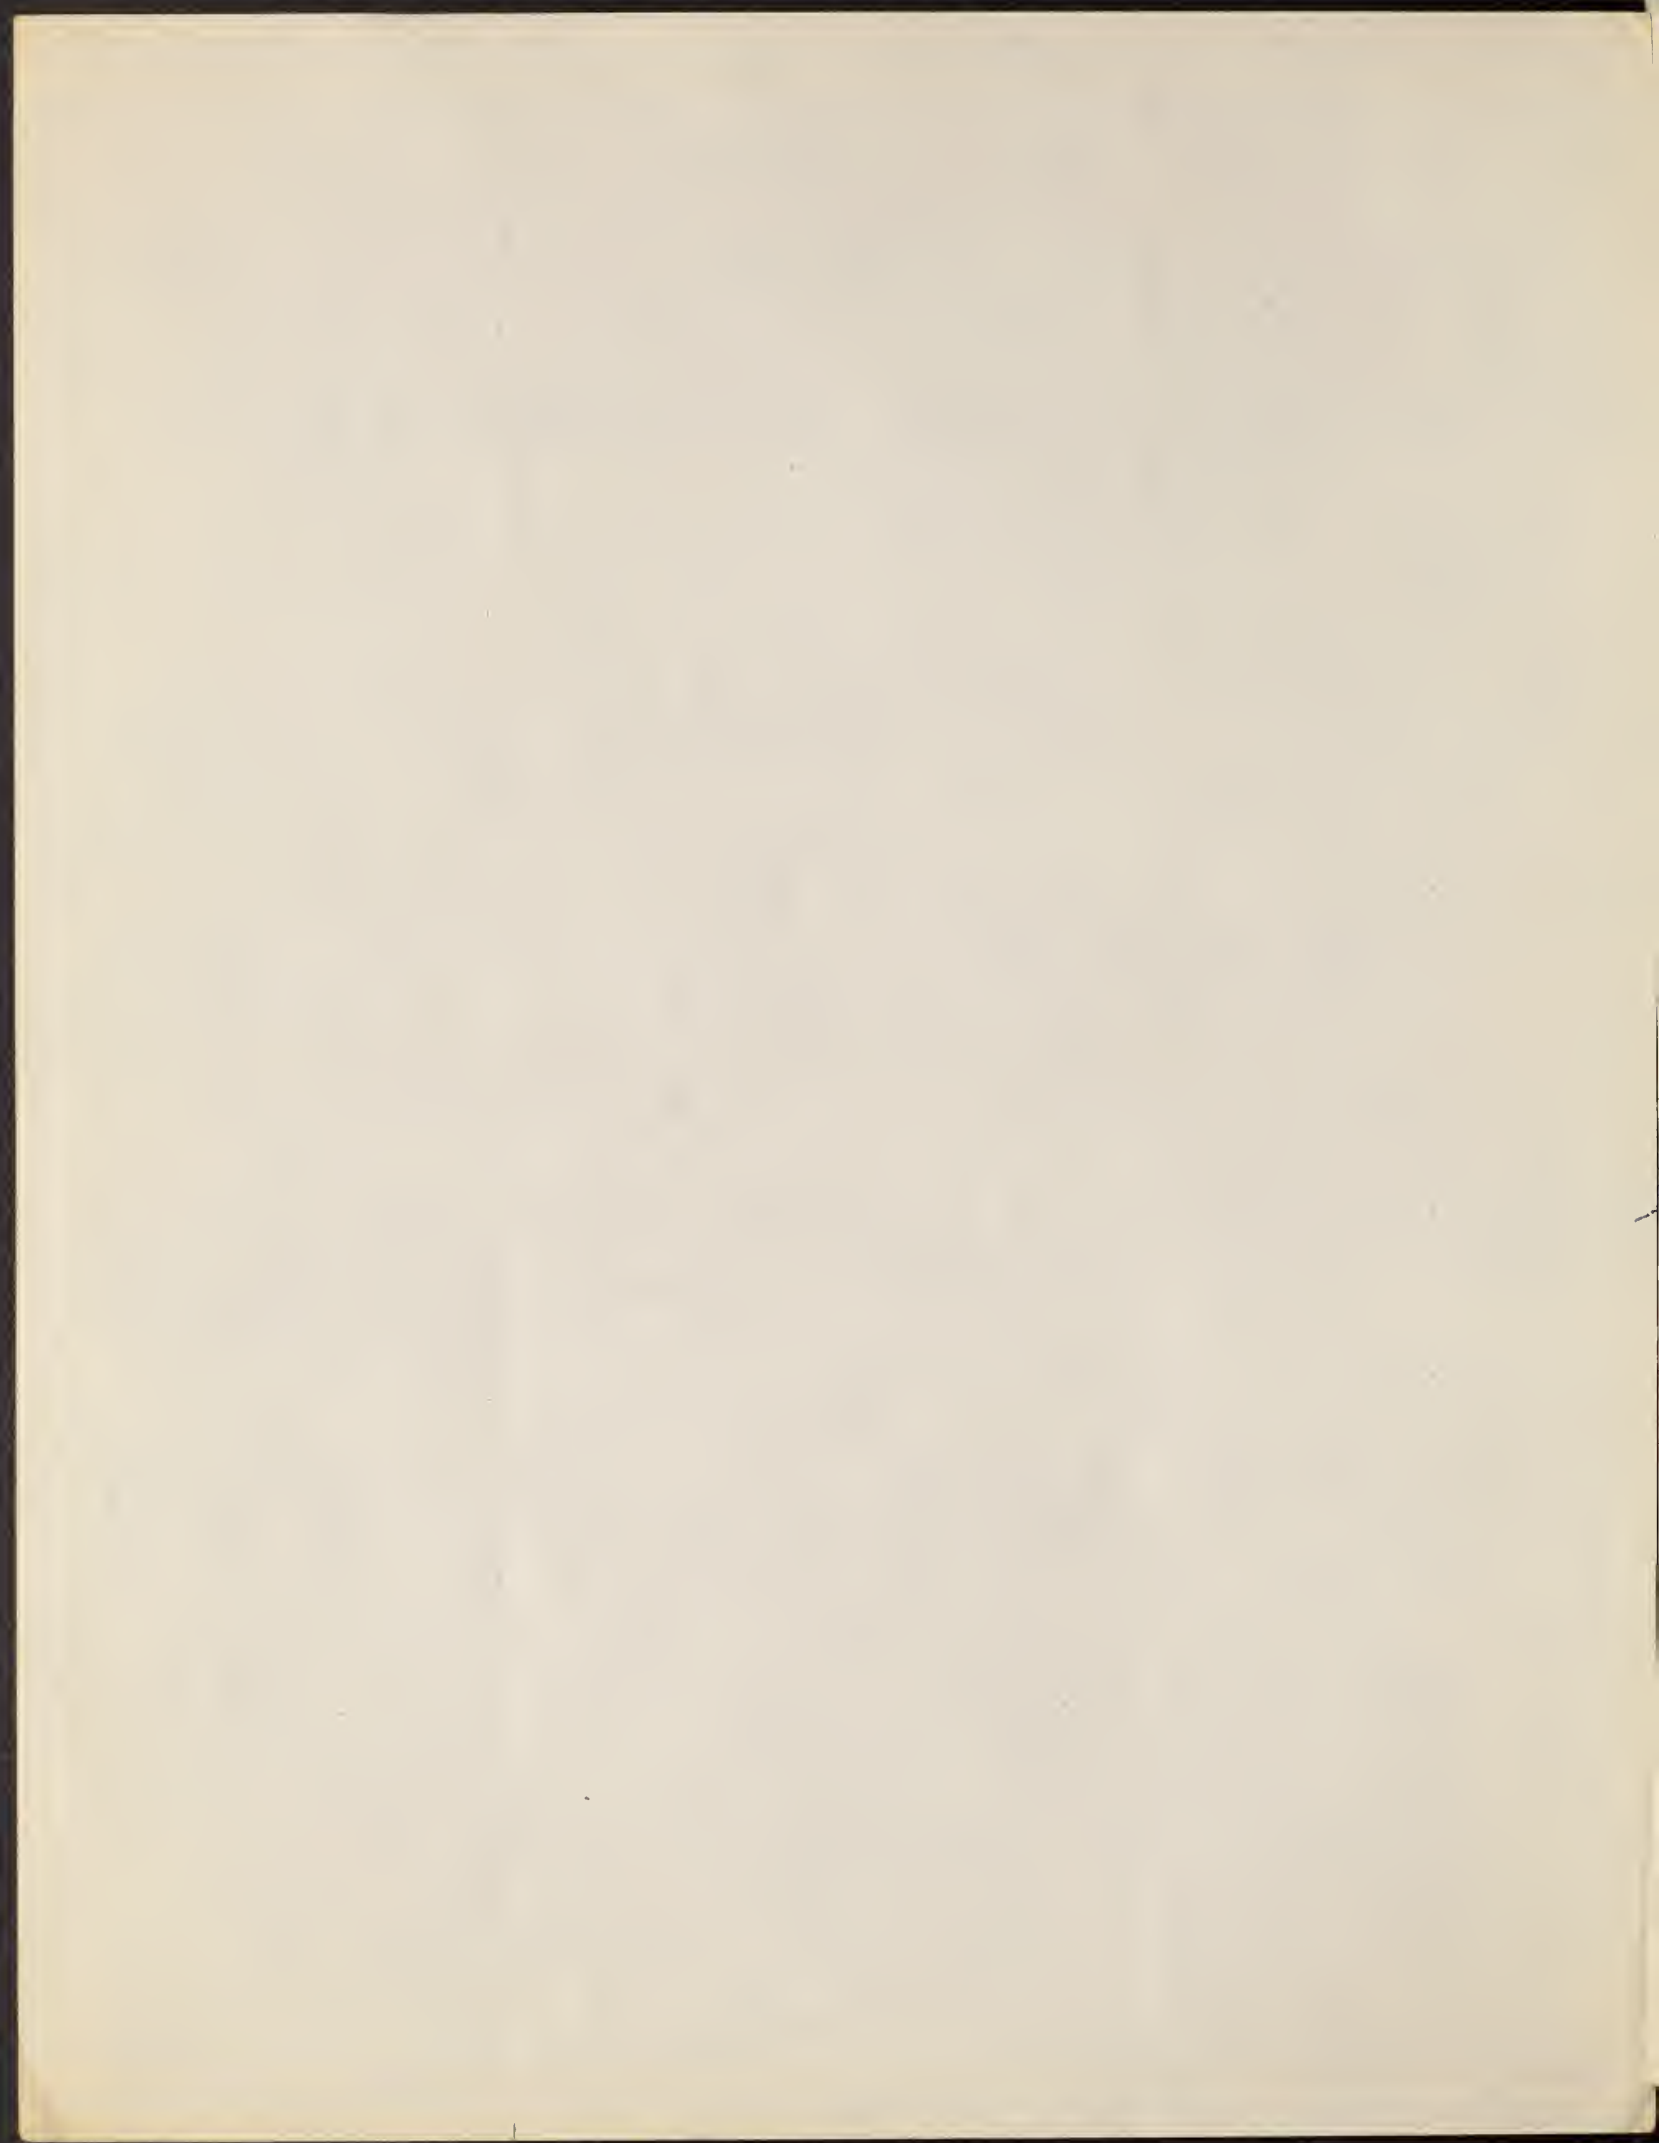

Put your answers after the questions and return this letter to me in the enclosed envelope.

Many thanks for being patient with me.

Yours sincerely,

If you give me a little time I can find out who Wm McGinnis wives were

Sincerely,
Gus Richards

Memorial of Sarah McGuinn.

To Gen. Haldimand.

The Humble Petition of Sarah McGuinn sheweth

That your petitioner, widow of Capt. McGuinn who was killed last War under the command of the late Sir William Johnson, Bart; near Lake George, and who has a son (being her only son now living) Lieutenant in the Indian or Six Nation Department, that was wounded in the knee in this unnatural Rebellion, and his having a helpless family renders him unable to give her any assistance; she is aged and very infirm, and the Rebels have destroyed, plundered and taken almost all her property, because they alleged (and not without Reason) that she was tampering with the Indians in favour of Government.

That she was confined at Fort Dation, and at different times brought before their Committee and strictly examined about Indian matters and as often with difficulty got clear of the Committee's Resentment.

That when our forces were before Fort Stanwix, your petitioner made her escape to it, with her family, except a son whom she was obliged to leave to their mercy, who was out of his senses and bound in chains, as he had been for several years, and who some time afterwards was burnt alive in the said situation.

That if your Petitioner had not got away, the Rebels certainly would have obliged her to act for them with the Indians, and actually offered her 12 shillings York Cur^y per Day, and a Guard of 15 men to protect her against any harm from Government side.

That after our Forces returned from Fort Stanwix to Orangetown, Your Petitioner was sent with her son, George McGinnis, to Cayouga Castle to be of every in her power to Government among the Indians; during her stay it happened that an Indian was going with a message Belt to the different Indian Nations (from Genl Schuyler) acquainting the Six Nations that all the King's Troops had been defeated and taken Prisoners at Saraghtoga by the American Army, and if the Six Nations would not immediately come and make peace with the Congress, they would find means to compel them, but Your Petitioner stole the Belt, and prevailed upon the Indian to carry an account of a different nature favourable to Government, and encouraging to the Six Nations who soon after went to war against the Rebels on the Frontiers.

That your Petitioner being now a resident at Conelton Island, and having no support but her bare Rations, and as most of the Indians resorting to that place come to her House to visit and advise with her upon every occasion, and to whom she gives always her best advice; and for the good of the service she often divides her provisions with them, and sometimes when they come in hungry (as her place is chiefly their first resort) even gives them the whole.

Your Excellency's humble petitioner therefore begs you would be pleased to order her some additional support, which may contribute to enable her to assist those Indians who

Your Excellency's Petitioner lastly takes this opportunity to annex an account of Cattle delivered to the Assistant Commissary General in 1777 at Fort Stanwix, by order of Brig^d Genl. That your Memorialist, son of Capt. McGinnis who was killed under the Command of Sir William Johnson, Baronet, near Lake George, lived in Tryon County and was for his loyalty confined in Albany Jail for several months at a time when the Enemy used him very hard: He endured these hardships longer than he would have done on account of his aged mother and family, who were persons of property and some influence with the Indians, among whom was an elder brother in confinement for lunacy.

That your Memorialist arrived at Niagara the 27th appointed him Lieut. in the Indian Department

That your Memorialist was in his Department at Fort the command of Sir John Johnson; that on his Return from Fort Stanwix your Memorialist was sent from Oswego to between Schuyler and the Indians, and to be of every other service in his power to Government, which was effected in a manner well known to Col. Claus.

That in May, 1778, your Memorialist was sent with two men by Col. Butler from Canadasega ^{General} to Aughquaga ^{over}, and from thence to Shawhauken a Branch of the Delaware among which were 16 head of Rebels' Cattle; and with him came 40 men; some of them joined Col. Butler and the rest Capt. Grant.

That soon after that, your Memorialist joined Col.
Butler at Igoa, and was with him at the Subduing the Rebels at Wyomen, and the destroying that Country.

That from thence he was sent to Igoa, and then back towards Wyomen to bring up the Indians, Rangers and Cattle in order to join Capt. Caldwell as soon as possible

Butler ordered him, a few days later (after), on a scout to Oswego, and was by him sent on Business to the Indian Castles different times till the Beginning of May, 1779, when he went with Col. Butler into the Indian Country on a Report of General Sullivan's ~~being there~~ having marched towards it; with whom he continued till his return to Niagara.

That your Memorialist immediately after went with Col. Johnson to join Sir John Johnson at Oswego, and from thence to Carleton Island where he did duty all Winter, and was often out on scouts and took some Prisoners.

That in September, 1780 your Memorialist went with Sir John Johnson to Schoharie, from thence to the Mohock River and Stonewall; where they were attacked by a noted Rebel Col. Brown, where he and a number of his men were slain, and your memorialist received a Ball through his knee, and was with great difficulty brought on horse back to the new Oneida Castle, where there was a prisoner taken by the Party, who gave information that a certain Captain Vrooman with a party from Fort Stanwix were gone to destroy the Boats, which occasioned his being left alone behind at that time; that afterwards a Party of 9 men was sent to bring him up to the Mean Body, who carried him seven miles off the Mean Road into the Woods, where he was left, with one man only eleven days, subsisting on nothing ~~but~~ more than about a Handful of Hickerry nuts a day for 11 days. Dear Doctor, Please accept our sincere thanks for the two copies of the story of Sarah W. Ginness. We have read the story and find it very interesting indeed. We have often wondered if the information in the old family Bible was of any use to you in your historical research.

Shirley was very pleased to receive her copy and I know she will treasure it as we shall. We have always been very interested in Loyalist history and have spent many hours in old grave-yards looking for the graves of the ancestors, but without success. It seems a shame they are unmarked.

We certainly had no idea there was a heroine in the family and are grateful to you for bringing the facts to light. Thanking you again
Yours

Sincerely

Laurine W. Ginness

Dear Mr. Burleigh:

My family and I have very much enjoyed your article "A Tale of Longest Heroinism."

Sarah Kate M^c Guinness (Mason, M^c Guinness, M^c Guinness) was my great, great, great, great grandmother. Her son was George M^c Guinness who married Nancy? Their daughter, Catherine married George M^c Head. Their son Alexander married Florence Osburn. Their daughter Catherine M^c Head married William Blacklock. Their son, Harry M^c Head
Blacklock was my father.

I have the will of George M^c Guinness where he names his family and also the documents by which they inherited land at the age of 21.

Catherine M^c Guinness, who married George
 M^c Hard, sold her land to East of Mount Cassel. I have that document.

There are several M^c Guinness names in the telephone book - are any of these descendants?

Can you tell me who has the bible of George M^c Guinness? Is George M^c Guinness buried on Lambert Island?

Any help you could give me I would be very grateful. I can go back nine generations with the M^c Guinness and five with the rest of my relatives with documentary proof.

Sincerely
 Catherine Evans.

The widow McGinnis was sixty-two years of age when the first, faint rumblings of the coming revolution were heard along the Mohawk. She knew where she stood (in the hull before the storm) as she watched her neighbors taking sides. She had been born in destitution and had heard at first-hand ^{unhappy} tales of devastation in the Old World. She had participated in the first settlement along the upper Mohawk, ~~and with~~ ^{and with} her husband had prospered under the Colonial regime. As far as she was concerned ^{he had been} the decision ~~the decision~~ cast years before her birth when her grandparents left the Rhine valley, never to return. She was for loyalty to the ^{family} ~~ascendants~~ good Queen Anne and for the retention of existing institutions.

As the tempo of events approached open conflict, Col. George Johnson and his retinue, ^{in May 1775} retired up the Mohawk, camped for several days on the Nelsons farm, thus bringing into our position of the widows family. ~~In the conflict already under~~ way. In the months that intervened

~~During that period~~ both sides were marshalling their forces while the loyalists were awaiting British action and the Rebels were achieving administrative control over the activities of the widow & her family is best summed up by the memorial of John Thompson, her son-in-law, which states

There are few available records regarding the Upper Mohawk River between 1775 and the open conflict at Oriskany - July 1777. During this lull before the storm both sides were quietly marshalling their forces, and while the Loyalists were awaiting British leadership, the Rebels were achieving administrative control over the scattered settlements along the River.
